Note on direct debit payments

If you select to pay by direct debit, you will receive an email from us which includes a link to GoCardless.com who process our direct debits. You will need to click on this link (unfortunately printed in dark blue on blue) which will take you to their secure website where you enter your bank details and give authority for the direct debit to be taken from your account. This slightly circuitous route is there to protect you and means that your bank details are only held by GoCardless on a secure system. We will not hold bank information in any form. You will benefit from all the safeguards that surround direct debit payments, full details of which will be set out with the direct debit authority.
